

2nd Place: Esti Salamon
Tiferes Bnos (Brooklyn, NY)

A witness to the traumas of World War Two, Anita's doll is a symbol of hope and perseverance. Like her doll, Anita too survived horrors too gory to describe, traumas too sorrowful to retell and terrors too evil to perceive. Like her doll, Anita emerged battered and cracked, yet persevered and built a beautiful family. This dress portrays Anita's bright prospects to her future; cladding herself in hope and sunshine, clothing her shattered self with a brighter future.